Notes:

I did not include your personal information at the bottom of the ad because I do not know if you want it there or if it was added by the designers. My personal opinion is that it is not necessary especially if you have or plan to have any other sales people responding to queries.

I also did not include any reference to a link or provide a click here button because I am not sure if this is intended for email, online or print.

I don't know what your contractual obligations are with regard to naming or if you planning to private label any of this but you can also use The ESP POS
